

I received my monthly telephone bill from Verizon and on the Long Distance portion (which is presently provided by WorldXchange--1-800-569-8700), there is a charge for a 4 minute call to the Solomon Is which comes to $30.00. As a single mother of 4 children living on a fixed income I was outraged when I learned from the WorldXchange people that this was supposedly a hit on an internet site for the charge. Is there any way that I can oppose this charge. No one in the family remembers hitting on such a site and is there any kind of regulations regarding these matters. I can't understand how one's phone bill can be charged for something like this. Usually internet sites which require billing have the charges assessed to your credit card. Can you please help me look into this as I am getting nowhere with these companies. Thank you.
